THEY NEED YOU. WE NEED YOU. From all of us, thank you.

On a typical day at the shelter, you can't tell the staff from the volunteers. A family arrives, excited to pick up the latest addition to their pack, Tucker, an 8-month old golden retriever. Tucker, who is all puppy, bounds out and sees the delighted faces of his new family. He is a highly energetic dog and is working on learning some manners. Adoption Counselor and Volunteer, Bruce Goettel explains that the dog has a good disposition, but he will need some training. He walks the family through the adoption process and the family agrees to take Tucker to the CCHS Basic Manners Class. Meanwhile, the phone rings. Long-time volunteer, Chris Noffsinger answers cheerfully and informs the caller that we have plenty of rabbits that need good homes. Then, one of the many GIANT Garage Sale volunteers stops in to announce that the GIANT Garage Sale made over $56,000 this year. Cheers, clapping and sounds of celebration come from the office. Outside the shelter, volunteer, Candace McMaster arrives at the CCHS Animal Adventure Camp with her dog, Teddy, a gorgeous and gentle Elk Hound who loves kids. Teddy stands politely as a dozen children greet him one by one, learning the proper way to approach a dog.

WITH A STAFF OF 20, SHELTER VOLUNTEERS OUTNUMBER STAFF 10:1!

365 days a year CCHS volunteers are helping the animals. It is because of our volunteers that each animal gets the individualized attention that he needs and deserves. With a staff of 20, shelter volunteers outnumber staff by 10:1! The success of the shelter hinges on the reliability and devotion of volunteers.

Hundreds of volunteers work as CCHS ambassadors in the community as well. The board of directors and committees are made up of people that donate their time to helping advance the mission of CCHS. The two largest fundraising events of the year, Fur Ball and the GIANT Garage Sale depend heavily (if not entirely!) on volunteers for their success. The funds raised at these events are crucial to the care of the animals. Stefanie Pratt, chair of the Fur Ball, devotes six months out of every year to

FROM THE DIRECTOR

In November 2009, we took in a cat named Dover. She was a senior, at least 12 years old, by our best estimate. In the Summer of 2010 she was still waiting for her forever home when she fell ill and was diagnosed with renal failure. With heavy hearts, we took Dover off the adoption floor.

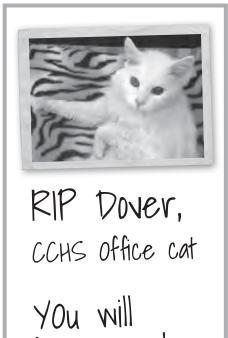

With regular fluids and good medical care, it was thought that Dover could live comfortably for about six more months. Although we certainly couldn't adopt-out a cat with renal failure, our Shelter Manager, Michelle McKnight, decided to move Dover into her office. Another staff member agreed to help Michelle cover the cost of Dover's care while she lived out the rest of her life as the shelter's "office cat." This arrangement suited Dover just fine, and to our surprise, she thrived. Over time, Dover developed a relationship with just about every member of the CCHS staff. If you sat down in Michelle's office for a chat, Dover would get up from her bed, saunter across Michelle's computer keyboard, and make herself comfortable on your lap. Dover lived for almost 2 full years after her diagnosis. We said our final goodbyes to Dover in May.

Dover's story makes me proud. Proud that I work with a staff made up of compassionate people who "walk the walk." Staff members who didn't hesitate to make personal sacrifices-of money and time-to see that a little homeless cat would live her final months in comfort and dignity.

The people I work with restore my faith in mankind every day, as do our volunteers, donors, adopters, and supporters throughout the community. Your love and your generosity is what keeps us going here at CCHS - both literally and spiritually, and we are truly grateful to be here for the next homeless animal that needs our help.

Paw Prints is the newsletter of the Champaian County Humane Society. Incorporated in 1951, CCHS is a nonprofit, nongovernmental organization dedicated to instilling respect, kindness, and compassion for animals as community values.

Its work includes preventing cruelty to animals, promoting animal welfare, educating the public about humane care and treatment of animals, increasing public awareness of the companion animal overpopulation issue and providing solutions, and providing high quality shelter, medical, and adoption services for animals when necessary.

making the Fur Ball bigger and better than the year before. And, Mare Payne, Chair of the GIANT Garage Sale, not only coordinates the entire event, but also takes two-weeks of vacation to give the Garage Sale her full attention.

Volunteers' level of participation varies as much as the duties they perform. While there are regular volunteers who can be found at the shelter and CCHS events several times a week, there are many people

CCHS volunteers take their duties as seriously as any paid staff member, understand the weight of their responsibilities, and are extremely devoted to enhancing the quality of life for CCHS animals.

Executive Director Mary Tiefenbrunn has great appreciation for the CCHS volunteers, "When we say that we couldn't do this without our volunteers, we really mean it."
